

Otázky

1. How do people get infectious diseases?
2. What are the types of direct transmission of infection?
3. What are the types of indirect transmission of infection?
4. What are the biggest successes of public health?
5. What do antimicrobials do?
6. How can habits be changed to address health promotion problems that lead to the spread of infectious diseases?
7. What do vaccine injections lead to?
8. What are medicines used to treat infections called?
9. How can the environment be modified to reduce infectious diseases?
10. Explain what the One Health concept is.
11. How can we control infectious diseases?
12. What has had the biggest successes of public health?
13. What are the three components to epidemiological triad?
14. What can increase the herd immunity.
15. What is the name of the model of the causes and development of infectious diseases?
16. What are the transmission routes of the disease?
There are two main transmission routes of infectious diseases –
Direct transmission:
 - Touching
 - Intercourse
 - Coughing (droplet spread)Indirect transmission:
 - Via intermediate vectors (e.g. mosquitoes)
 - Contaminated objects (fomites)
 - Airborne or vehicle-borne transmission
17. How can the risk of exposure to an infectious agent be eliminated and the spread of infection prevented?
18. What diseases can be spread by contaminated water?